

“What is hanging punctuation?” asked Alice, with a puzzled frown. ‘Well, y’know, actually,’ answered Bill, ‘I’d rather demonstrate it than explain it.’ “Oh, now I see. Commas, periods, and quotes are allowed to stick out into the margins, if they occur next to a line break.” ‘Yeah, I guess.’ “Really! But why do all your remarks have single quotes, while mine are double?” ‘I haven’t the foggiest; it’s weird. Ask the author of this crazy book.’